Executive Problem, Simple Solution

Imagine that your company CEO brings an important client to the office on the weekend. He just came from shooting a round of golf and does not have his access card with him. With the security system administrator currently out of the office and at the beach, it is still possible to open the office door and grant them access. And, they can view live video to make sure the CEO and his client are able to get into the building without any hassle. Since it's the weekend, the facility is armed. Before allowing the CEO and the client access, the security system administrator can disarm the facility before granting access and arm it again when the site is vacated. It's simply a matter of starting the EntraPass go application, disarming the alarm and unlocking the front door. Just long enough for the CEO and client to get inside and get down to business, while the administrator gets back to relaxing on the beach. It's that easy and that fast.
