We at UPSCO are actively monitoring the Corona virus outbreak in China, regarding possible supply chain impacts.

Currently there are no disruptions in the UPSCO supply chain due to the Corona Virus, however UPSCO will start taking preventative measures to ensure product is on hand if any shortages develop.

UPSCO will be purchasing a months' worth of safety stock for fittings, pipe nipples etc., beyond what we normally stock, that are manufactured in China. These will be kept in a separate warehouse location physically and in our operating system that cannot be used for normal activities, to prevent unauthorized usage.

UPSCO will also be taking steps to schedule material in sooner, that is specific to a customer's BOM, to help identify any shortages earlier than normal.

If any shortages develop beyond our control that impact our current safety measures and can cause delays in production, we will be making the proper notifications ASAP.
